Families like the Morris family are supported by your room adoption.

"I don't think I fully understood - the moment we walked into our room - what the House would mean to us. I think people who have never been through a situation with a sick child need to know that their support matters. And when you support an organization like this, you're not only helping a sick child but you're helping their family just cope through the day to day... and sometimes that means more than anything.

Thank you, we are forever grateful."
